

World War II Valor in the Pacific National Monument

More than a monument

The World War II Valor in the Pacific National Monument is a United States national monument honoring several aspects of American engagement in World War II. It encompasses 9 sites in 3 states totaling 6,310 acres.

In Hawaii: USS Arizona Memorial, USS Utah Memorial, USS Oklahoma Memorial, Six Chief Petty Officer Bungalows on Ford Island and the Mooring Quays F6, F7, and F8, which formed part of Battleship Row.

In Alaska: Battlefield remnants on Attu Island, Japanese occupation site on Kiska Island, Crash site of a B-24D Liberator bomber on Atka Island.

In California: Tule Lake Unit, World War II Valor in the Pacific National Monument. The actual wrecks of the Arizona, Utah, and Oklahoma are not parts of the monument, and remain under the jurisdiction of the US Navy. The monument was created on December 5, 2008.
